3+ Pre-school

Hardback Picture Books

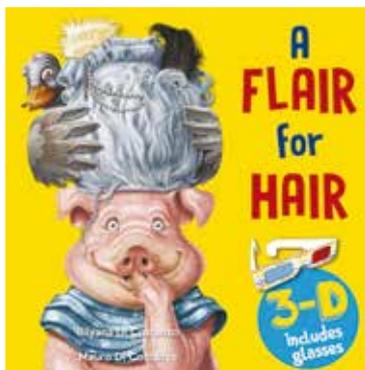

What do you see when you look in the mirror each morning? Inspired by her children's antics as they get ready for school each day, and the excitement of a special hairdo for a birthday party or other special occasion, first-time author Bilyana Di Costanzo has captured the curiosity of children and their hairstyles. Written and illustrated by a husband & wife team on the northern beaches, the illustrations are exceptional and just jump off the page. Paired with crisp rhyming text, this is sure to be a hit with pre-schoolers and early primary children.

Charlie the snail is taunted by three passing slugs. Charlie looks different, he has a big shell on his back. Bewildered and upset, Charlie has a very clever idea - to discard his once-beloved shell so he too could look like a slug. Alas! Being bare is not as easy as it seems.

Painful sunburn, pelting hailstones, prickly brambles and a swooping magpie are just some of the many misfortunes to befall a helpless shell-less snail. A snail tale with an important message at the heart - to appreciate the shell you're in!

Dave POW Tabain's schoolmate Stu is being bullied by Johno and his crew. At first, Dave doesn't know how he can help Stu. He's ashamed that he just stands and watches, too scared to do anything. Then he remembers that his parents taught him how to deal with people who say and do mean things to others. Its time to make a plan. He explains his POW PLAN to Stu and their friend Bray, and they test it out that afternoon at sport. In a thrilling game of basketball, Stu overcomes Johno's bullying and their team wins the game. The boys are so excited that the plan worked, they're pretty sure it could work for other kids too.

Leo McGuffin has the best job in the world. He works for the Institute of Fantastical Inventions making people's fantasies come true. Want to float around the house like a bubble and pop at midnight? No problem.

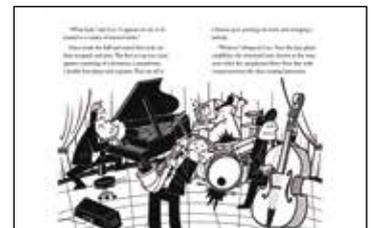

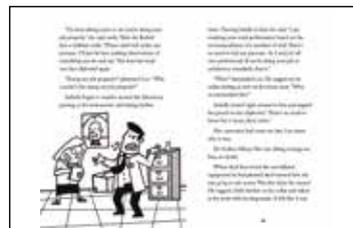

When boy wonder Edward joins up with Leo, they help boring Roger Mumble become an international man of mystery. Then the pair uncover a dastardly plan to steal and sell the Institute's array of magnificent inventions, threatening the very existence of the organisation Leo loves. Can Leo, Edward, Dr Andrea Allsop and the mysterious Roger Mumble outwit the spies and save the Institute from ruin?

The Institute of Fantastical Inventions was, essentially, a place where the craziest desires could come true. Leo's latest clients are the Simpson Family. Their wish is simple - to create a harmonious family. While Leo and his boy genius assistant Edward are researching ways to help the Simpson family, pint-sized Isabella Santo is hired to monitor the performance of the scientists, and the IFI is thrown into chaos. Can Leo and Edward once again save the IFI?

Ghosts and the Afterlife tells stories of people who have had spooky experiences in hospitals, houses, schools, prisons and even mental asylums. You'll find most ghosts are in places where people have been really happy, or really sad. Some of the best witnesses to being dead are people that are actually alive as you will see in the chapter on near death experiences.

Every story in this book is true or at least as close to the truth as the author can make it.

Bullying is serious and potentially has a lasting impact. Young people may feel afraid or ashamed and may even believe they are in some way responsible or helpless to stop it. I Can Deal with Bullying! debunks these beliefs. The gentle, conversational and supportive text encourages young people to ask for help, maintain self-esteem, develop resilience, manage their reactions and stand united with others against bullying. Suitable for any age I Can Deal with Bullying! is an important read for all young people. Written by former teacher and counsellor Gina Dawson, it is uplifting, motivational and positive throughout.

New Holland Publishers are extremely proud to be partnering with the Starlight Children's Foundation. The Starlight Children's Foundation brightens the lives of seriously ill and hospitalised children by replacing pain, fear and stress with fun, joy and laughter. The Starlight Express Rooms create a medical-free haven for sick kids and their families, seeking a welcome break from the relentless cycle of medical treatments and procedures. Open 7 days a week, 365 days a year, the Starlight Express Rooms are located in every children's hospital in Australia and run by Captain Starlight and an incredible group of volunteers. Established in 1988, Starlight has become one of Australia's broadest-reaching and most trusted children's charities.

With every purchase of a New Holland Publisher's children's book branded with the Starlight logo on the back cover, a portion of proceeds will go to Starlight, and you will be directly supporting this amazing charity to bring some much-needed joy and laughter to Australia's seriously ill and injured kids.
